

Privacy Policy — Draft for Counsel Review

Prescription Benefit Solutions LLC · publishes at www.rxbs.org/privacy · draft of July 16, 2026

What we are asking counsel to review

1. The PHI paragraph ("We do not collect protected health information... through this website") against how Prescription Benefit Solutions actually routes member/claims data in client work, and fit with South Carolina law, CCPA, and GDPR as drafted.
2. The third-party disclosure list (Wix, LinkedIn Insight Tag, Substack, Zapier, Microsoft Outlook) — reconciled to the live stack July 16, 2026; confirm the disclosures are adequate as written.
3. Retention, rights, and children sections — appropriate for a small US B2B consultancy with EEA-incidental traffic.
4. Anything the draft is missing for a firm in our position.

Business deadline: the page must be live before LinkedIn advertising begins in September; we would like counsel comments by August 15, 2026. Placeholders (effective date, street address) are set at publish and are not part of the legal review.

This Privacy Policy describes the information we collect, how we use it, and your choices regarding that information when you visit rxbs.org, subscribe to our publications, download our Plan Sponsor Toolkit materials, or otherwise engage with PBS digitally.

We do not collect protected health information (PHI), claims data, member-level information, or any information regulated under HIPAA through this website. Information of that nature is handled exclusively through secure, contractually governed channels separate from this site.

How we use the information

Cookies and analytics rxbs.org uses cookies for:

- Essential functionality (form submissions, language preferences)
- Analytics through Wix Analytics
- Marketing attribution (UTM parameters from email and ad campaigns, and the LinkedIn Insight Tag, a pixel that supports ad measurement and audience building for LinkedIn campaigns)
- Repeat-download convenience — when you download a Plan Sponsor Toolkit, we store your name, email, company, and role locally in your browser so you do not have to re-enter them the next time you request another toolkit. This information stays on your device, is used only to pre-fill the download form, and can be cleared at any time through your browser settings or the "Not you?" option on the form.

You can disable cookies and local storage through your browser settings. Doing so may affect some site functionality, including the repeat-download convenience above.
